Now I do confess everything to thee in this wise: that eighteen years ago there came to me a certain man very wise and high in favor with Uther-Pendragon and that man was the Enchanter Merlin. And Merlin showed me the signet ring of Uther-Pendragon and he commanded me by virtue of that ring that I should be at a certain assigned place at a particular time which he nominated; and the place which he assigned was the postern gate of Uther-Pendragon's castle; and the time which he named was midnight of that very day.

Foreword

To certain tribes of Indians, the Swastika portrayed truly the meeting and the mingling of the four winds, north, east, south and west.

If to us, Indians of Catawba, this Swastika faithfully depicts the meeting and the mingling of the four classes, Senior, Junior, Sophomore and Freshman, then this staff will not have labored in vain.

To our Mothers and Fathers, who long since dreamed of a college education for us, and whose loyalty, devotion, and sacrifices since that day have caused that dream to grow into splendid reality, we, the Class of

TO THE STUDENTS OF CATAWBA COLLEGE:

It is a pleasure to extend my greetings through the SWASTIKA board.

The cordial reception with which you greeted me in chapel on the morning of my first day at Catawba College will ever remain a very happy memory with me. The spirit of welcome was so sincere. The most impressive feature of that reception was the pledge on the part of all the groups on the campus of complete cooperation in all efforts which would promote the wholesomeness of our college life. I felt from the very beginning that we were on a basis of common ideals and aims.

There are always outstanding attitudes in every student group. They constitute the characteristics of that group. I had heard fine things about the students of Catawba, and you may imagine how interested I was in learning to know you personally. After five months of life in your midst, it is my observation that you are characterized by three dominant attitudes, and it gives me pleasure to tell you what they are: a spirit of democracy which rates one at his real worth and eliminates false values, a fine spirit of Christian friendliness and happiness which makes living with you truly enjoyable, and a feeling that although there should be plenty of fun in life, work is your real mission.

We consider ourselves fortunate to be living and working in your midst.

Sincerely yours,

HOWARD R. OMWAKE,
President.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE SWASTIKA STAFF AND OF THE JUNIOR CLASS:

I am glad to commend you for work that you have accomplished during the past year and to extend to you my sincere good wishes for your future success.

As a class you have shown ability and strength of character. I have watched you grow in class unity and college spirit, and I predict for your senior year greater development in character building. Unless a student shows, on the completion of a four-year course in college, growth physically, mentally, morally, and spiritually, he has failed to get the best things that a college has to offer.

This is my wish for each of you: that you may find yourselves, and carry into your future life a real spirit of service, and take as your motto that of the Black Prince: Ich dien (I serve).

W. AUGUSTA LANTZ,
Dean of Women.

To write a message of felicitation to the editors of the SWASTIKA and the Junior Class is not at all difficult. The Junior year in college is one of hopefulness par excellence. The hard, uphill climbing required in the Freshman and Sophomore years is accomplished, and by standing on mental tiptoe, the completed course can be visualized. The high school spirit has undergone a great transformation, and the feeling of college-men and college-women now wells up in the soul. How fortunate it is that the Juniors are responsible for writing the SWASTIKA. You will look in vain to find any crabbedness or pessimism in a book produced by them. Here we have youthful manhood and womanhood "in whose dictionaries the word 'failure' is not found." Such young men and young women are a sine qua non for Catawba's continued growth. Abundant blessings upon them.

ALLEN K. FAUST,
Dean of Men.

In Memoriam

MARY FRANCES SEYMOUR, A.B., A.M.

To one whose work was her life, whose college was her home, whose students were her friends, we respectfully pay tribute. Miss Mary Frances Seymour was one of whom we must say,

*"She has 'joined the choir invisible
Of those immortal dead who live again
In minds made better by their presence.'"*

She gave unceasingly of her time, means, and energy. No favor was too great for her to grant, no consideration was too small for her to give—to each and all.

For us who knew and loved her no lines could more truly characterize her life than these:

*"And sometimes the thing our life misses Helps more than the thing which it gets.
For good lieth not in pursuing,
Nor quitting of great nor of small,
But just in doina, and doing
As we would be done by, is all."*

DR. ALLEN K. FAUST

Upon entering the halls of Catawba College as Professor of Social Sciences, Dr. Allen K. Faust endeared himself to all, and was immediately accepted as one of the foremost and best loved members of the faculty.

The class of 1932 in its Junior year was exceedingly fortunate in securing him as class adviser. Having proved of great assistance and inspiration, he was again chosen to serve the class in the same capacity during its Senior year.

By virtue of his long years of experience both as educator and executive, he is thoroughly capable of guiding wisely and efficiently all the activities of the class. His intuitive understanding and his actual experience and observation concerning human nature made him eminently qualified as an adviser in purely personal problems.

The class of 1932, upon leaving Catawba College, feels a deep sense of gratitude and appreciation to its beloved friend and adviser, Dr. Allen K. Faust.

*"Ah, but a man's reach should exceed his grasp,
 Or what's a heaven for?"*

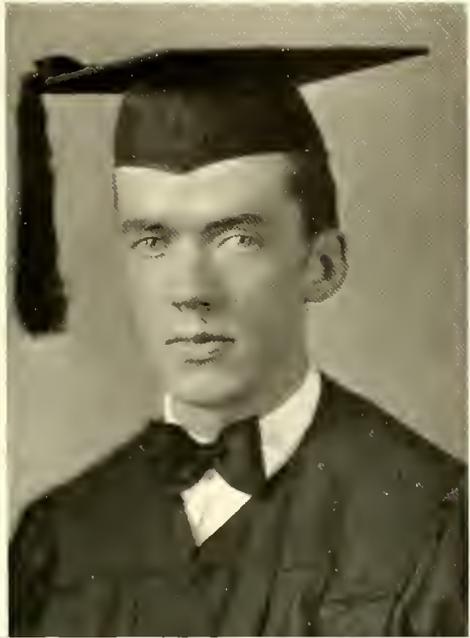

How perfectly does this excerpt fit this diminutive individual! 'Tis almost a true exemplification of Browning's philosophy: "Not to achieve but to aspire is the noblest end." Throughout his collegiate career we have found this loyal supporter of Catawba behind every vital movement. Thus we predict for him throughout life: the man whose reach shall exceed his grasp—the man with wisdom, courage, and honesty behind the screen directing and guiding those who are the visible actors only.

FRANK K. BOSTIAN, A.B.
 SALISBURY, N. C.

Ministerial Band, 1, 2, 3; Pioneer Staff, 1, 2, 3, Sports Editor, 3; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, Secretary, 3, Cabinet, 3; Business Manager Tom-Tom, 2; Debate Council, 3; Athenaeum Literary Society, 1, 2, 3; Classic Club, 3; Schiller Verein, 3; Intramural Sports, 1, 2, 3.

Such was the intellectual ability of Frank that he found it necessary to attend college only three years. He left to enter a theological seminary, where he is preparing to enter the ministry.

Frank was a quiet chap. His infinite capacity for studying set him apart and marked him for a successful life. Always among the first in scholastic attainment, he yet found time to engage in the intramural sports and other activities of the campus. He was always ready to do a favor for a friend.

ALICE LAURA BOYD, A. B.

GASTONIA, N. C.

Weaver Junior College, 1; Y. W. C. A., 2, 3; Blue Masque, 2, 3; Philomathean Literary Society, 2, 3; Intramural Sports, 2, 3.

Alice is studious and lets nothing interfere with her work, not even fun and pleasure, though she finds time for them, too. Alice is very timid and modest, but as a friend she is every ready to lend a helping hand and to give words of encouragement to all. From Weaver College Alice came to our campus as a Sophomore, and in two years Catawba is handing her her diploma. What more need we say to display the merits of this friend of ours?

EARL F. BREWER, A. B.

NYACK, NEW YORK

Athenaeum Literary Society, 1; Pioneer Staff, 1; Y. M. C. A., 1; University of North Carolina, 2; Tennis Team, 3, 4.

Here's to Earl—one of our quiet and serious-minded chaps. He seems to have the idea that one should be seen and not heard. One of these days, though, that will be forgotten.

Earl is a good student and one who is interested in his work. There is a great future for you, Earl. We wish you success!

ELSIE MANDILLA BRILHART, A.B.
HAMPSTEAD, MARYLAND

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2, 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4, Vice-President, 3, Cabinet, 2, 4; Girls' Varsity Debating Team, 2, 3; Debate Council, 3, Secretary-Treasurer, 3; Maryland Club, 2, 3, President, 2, 3; Intramural Sports, 2, 3, 4; Editor-in-Chief Tom-Tom, 2; Pioneer Staff, 2, 3, 4; Associate News Editor, 3, Social Editor, 4; Associate Editor SWASTIKA, 3; Blue Masque, 2, 3, 4.

Five feet two of mischief and boundless energy, dancing blue eyes, and infectious giggle—and you have Elsie!

Five feet two of seriousness and illimitable insight, interested Y. W. C. A. worker, and unparalleled debater—and you have Elsie!

Thus has Elsie been endowed with a composite personality. This efficient, intelligent and brilliant member of our class is talented in everything that we give her to do—from the trifles to the really big things; moreover, she does the trifles and the big things with an equal amount of happiness and humor. Good luck, pal!

RACHEL BUSBY, A.B.
SALISBURY, N. C.

N. C. C. W., 1; Debate Council, 2, Secretary, 2; Varsity Debating Team, 2; Assistant Advertising Manager of Pioneer, 3.

If you should hear a peal of laughter and a loud "Well, I'll declare," you may be quite sure that Rachel is near. Although most of the time she is laughing she has been known to have serious thoughts which really have value. We have even heard her say, "Are you using your history book?"

Rachel is one of our most unusual girls—original in expression, staunch and plain-spoken in her convictions. In spite of the fact that she does have this "take it or leave it" style in her make-up, she is considered by all very attractive, for, who does not love independence?

IDA H. BUCK, A.B.
ALTOONA, PA.

Athenaeon Literary Society, 1, 2, 3, 4; Secretary, 2; Classic Club, 1, 2, 3, President, 3; Schiller Verein, 1, 2, 3, 4; Secretary-Treasurer, 2; Pennsylvania Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Secretary-Treasurer, 3, 4; Los Hildagos, 2, 3, 4; Vice-President, 3, 4; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; President, 3; Blue Masque, 1, 2, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Cabinet, 3; Class Historian, 2; Editor-in-Chief SWASTIKA, 3; Student Cabinet, 3, 4; Senate 4; Intramural Sports, 4.

Ida is unique, talented—herself.

Better to attempt an analysis of the ancient Greek oracles than to attempt to analyze one of Catawba's most individual personages. Ida has the uncanny wisdom of a person much older and more experienced, the frankness of one who has unshakable faith in her own convictions, and a worldly poise unexcelled by those far advanced in years. A striking personality indeed will win for Ida a place in her world.

GRACE BROWN, A.B.
SALISBURY, N. C.

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2, 3; President, 3; Secretary of Class, 2; Senate, 2, 3; Secretary of Council, 2; Treasurer of Class, 3; Treasurer of Student Government Association, 2.

Efficient, interesting, and lovable are the words which best describe Grace. Blessed is she with a deep, sincere friendship and loyalty to those whom she calls friend.

Perhaps we judge Grace too harshly, but we find that she has left far too many unrequited suitors at Catawba.

Happy, however, is she in her own sweet way, and with a happiness that is ever contagious she is seen going about her work and play. Her quaint charm has won for her the best wishes of all Catawba. We predict for Grace a brightly and happy future filled with many successes.

JAMES M. CASPER, JR. A B.
SALISBURY, N. C.

University of North Carolina, 1; Band, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 2, 3, 4, Business Manager, 3, 4, President 4; SWASTIKA Staff, 3; Philomathean Literary Society, 2, 3; Track, 2.

"Jimmy" is a cheerful sort of a fellow, ready to work and ready to play at the proper time for each. He has a quickness and alertness to perform his tasks—he was once a high-pressure salesman.

A day-student was Jim, so we saw little of him after classes, except on the nights when a meeting of the Glee Club was scheduled. Never did he fail to lead and help the members of this organization to execute better programs—even if it meant that he had to carry the "stand" from Brodbeck Conservatory to the auditorium and back again after the rehearsal. By the same spirit that he has gained comrades will he climb the ladder of success.

ELEANOR CORRIHER, B.S. in Music
CHINA GROVE, N. C.

Rhapsody Club, 1, 2; Athenaeum Literary Society 1, 2; College Band, 2; Schiller Verein, 2, 3; Secretary Treasurer, 2; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Cabinet, 2, 3, Secretary, 4; Los Hualagos, 3, 4; Blue Masque, 4 Executive Committee, 4; Glee Club, 4; Secretary of Class, 4.

Introducing to you, our readers, one of our outstanding musicians. Many hours of hard work—pleasure it seems to her—did she spend in the conservatory, the stage for her successful acts.

Eleanor doesn't fill the air with static but remains silent until someone tunes in for real conversation. By her professors, she will be remembered as a diligent and conscientious student; by her more intimate associates, as a kind helpmate, as a staunch friend, and a real influence for the attainment of virtue. Only the best is bound to come your way, Eleanor.

MRS. M. C. CUTHRELL, B.S. in Music
AYDEN, N. C.

Salem College, 1, 2, 3; E. C. T. C. Summer School.

Loyal, sincere, even-tempered, sympathetic—all these qualities go to make up Mrs. Cuthrell. Although she is rather reserved, those who know her have found that she is always a good sport.

Mrs. Cuthrell was a great gift coming to us her senior year, and we are very sorry she couldn't join us as a "freshie." Her musical talent has made her outstanding, and we know that she will gain for herself a place in the musical world.

WILMA DEAL, B.S. in Home Economics
CHINA GROVE, N. C.

Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3; Athenaeum Literary Society, 1, 2, 3; Home Economics Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 2; Home Economics Assistant, 3, 4; Intramural Sports, 2, 3, 4.

Striking is the charm and ability of Wilma! Well does she manage to unravel the intricacies of recipes and patterns! Whether she expounds her acquired knowledge to young "uns" or whether she reigns supreme in her own home—and we believe she will do the latter, for we have noticed a "brilliant" on the proper finger of the proper hand—we know good fortune will crown all her efforts.

MARTHA LEE DEATON, A. B.

MOORESVILLE, N. C.

Erskine College, 1; Y. W. C. A., 2, 3, Treasurer, 3; Rhapsody Club, 2; Glee Club, 3; Blue Masque, 2, 3; Tumbling Club, 2; Phi Epsilon, 2, 3, 4; Classic Club, 2, 3; Los Hidalgos, 3; Intramural Sports, 2, 3; Editor of Tom-Tom, 4.

Martha seemed quite capable of mixing books, business, sports, music, and last, but not least, friends.

Molly did not allow us to see her "all dyked out in Frosh bib-and-tucker" for she spent her first collegiate year at Erskine. However, in the time that she did grace our campus, she established herself as a rare good sport, not too serious, not too gay, and every ready for play. She was unable to spend the entirety of her Senior year with us.

Molly, we do hope that your health will not hinder you from attaining the heights which you are most certainly destined to scale!

RUBY DIEHL, B.S. in Home Economics

KLINGERSTOWN, PA.

Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3; Athenaeum Literary Society, 1, 2, 3, Secretary, 2; Home Economics Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, Treasurer, 3; Tumbling Club, 1; Phi Epsilon, 1, 2; Schiller Verein, 2, 3, President, 3; Intramural Sports, 2, 3, 4, Soccer Captain, 2, 3; Pennsylvania Club, 1, 2, 3, 4.

Sweet, twenty and married! In the spring this young lady's fancy turned to thoughts of love, so she chose to leave us and take up her abode with "loved ones" near the old homestead in Pennsylvania.

No better companion and friend ever trod the earth than Ruby. Just so quiet and unpretentious; then, just so jubilant and mischievous was this classmate of ours. And we realize exactly why this personality made up of such complexities, which so enticed us, could not be forgotten nor relinquished by that lucky man.

May you "live happily ever after"—this is the benediction upon the lips of those you've left at your Alma Mater.

EDWARD ENGLISH, B.S.
in Business Administration
MOCKSVILLE, N. C.

Basketball, 1; Football, 1; Baseball, 1; Athenaeum Literary Society, 1.

To tell all we know about Edward English would be interesting, but to tell all we don't know about him would be fascinating. Despite his reserve, we have found him friendly, clever, thoughtful, happy. We, most of us, know him well enough to want him for a friend. All of us, however, know that he has capacities that few of us have found, and we know, too, that he has qualities that he has never revealed.

DWIGHT A. FINK, B.S.
in Business Administration
SALISBURY, N. C.

Glee Club, 2, 3, 4; Blue Masque, 1, 2, 3, 4.

Commanding the respect and admiration of all of us, Dwight's calmness, efficiency, and utter disregard for self have promulgated an influence exceeded by few students. Dwight is all that a friend and classmate should be; he excels in scholastic ability; he serves his class and his school with a steadfast desire for the right; he enters into social life with a smile; and when music is mentioned, Dwight is "sitting on top of the world"—for it is there that he is at his best.

ADOLPH D. FISCHBACH, A.B.

LINDERHURST, L. I., N. Y.

Los Hidalgos, 3, 4; Rana Club, 3, 4; Chemistry Club, 3, 4; Tennis, 3, 4; Intramural Sports, 1, 2, 3, 4.

Adolph is quiet; Adolph is unobtrusive; Adolph is intelligent. An unusual person is Adolph. He's one of those people who think. Few of us have learned to know him. But we all realize that he's a worthwhile member of our class.

To enter the medical world is one of Adolph's ambitions. He hasn't told us of any others, but we know he has them—only a really ambitious person will finish college in three years.

We want Adolph to have the best, and so, although it may be unnecessary, we wish for him the greatest happiness in his chosen work.

ALICE CORRELL FISHER, A.B.

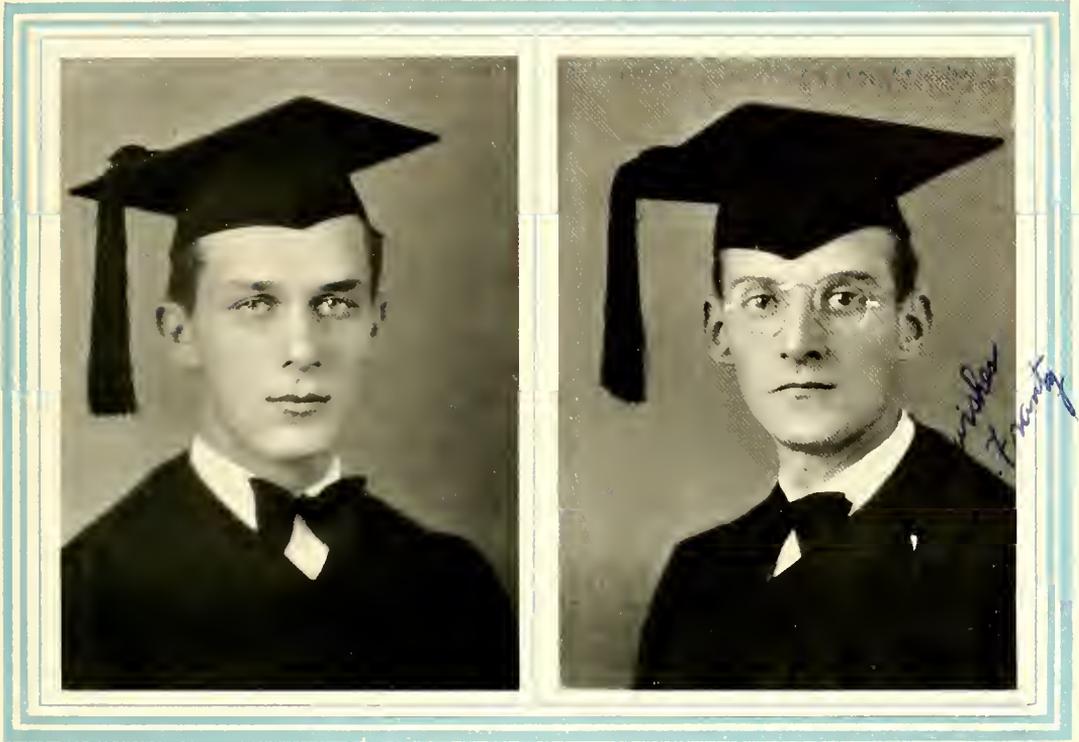

SALISBURY, N. C.

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 4; Los Hidalgos, 1, 2, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer, 3; President, 4; Blue Masque, 1, 2, 3, 4, Secretary, 3; Secretary Class, 1; Vice-President Class, 2; Y. Sally, as she is known on the campus, properly and deservedly received the honor of being chosen the best all-round senior girl.

Her willingness to work gave her a splendid record in extra-curricular activities. Debater, athlete, journalist, actress, or what have you—Sally was all of these, and more—she was an honor student.

THOMAS C. FISHER, A.B.
SALISBURY, N. C.

Duke University, 1, 2; Philomathean Literary Society, 3, 4.

When Tom decided that the little ole hometown college was the one for him he gave us Catawbans a "break" which we know those "Blue Devils" coveted—especially the fair ceds. Ah, no, we do not mean that Tom is the type who gives the lassies the "rush"; he is merely one who is worshiped from afar. Nor is Tom ascetic; he just doesn't play that old-fashioned game. "Tag"—no girl is ever It in his life.

Now, do you understand this enigmatic Mr. Fisher? Neither do we! How one who has, unlike many of his contemporaries, the privilege to choose his devotees can abstain from such selection is more than we can see. But that's just Tom, and we like him for it.

More power to you, Tom, in all of your affairs—of the heart, too, if there ever are any.

NEVIN R. FRANTZ, B.S.
in Business Administration

LANCASTER, PA.

Franklin and Marshall College, 1, 2, 3.

For one who has been at Catawba only one year, Nevin is exceedingly popular. He came to our campus in the fall and went quietly about making for himself a place in his class. Because of illness he was absent from classes for a long time. Here he is now making a comeback and getting his sheepskin at the appointed time.

We've found him a friend—one we can call upon whenever we need him. We've found him an enthusiast for all school projects. We've found him a student who can adjust himself to new situations and use them to his own advantage. We've found him a thinker—an individual who can tell us things that aren't in books.

COY D. FRICK, A.B.
GRANITE QUARRY, N. C.

Lenoir Rhyne, 1, 2; Intramural Sports, 3, 4; Baseball, 3, 4; Soccer, 3, 4.

Was ever boy or girl given an appellation more apropos? Coy, Webster tells us, is: "Shrinking from notice, reserved, etc."; and he is. No senior is more reticent; yet none is more loyal, more sincere, or more sportsmanlike. Coy came on our campus and immediately took his place in our activities. Especially did he contribute to the success of the baseball and soccer teams, and in intramural sports he was always an active participant. Good luck and best wishes.

MARY ALLEN HENDRIX, B.S.
in Home Economics
MOCKSVILLE, N. C.

Meredith College, 1, 2; Y. W. C. A., 3, 4; Philomathean Literary Society, 3, 4; Schiller Verein, 3, 4; Rembrandt Club, 3; Home Economics Club, 3, 4; Pioneer Staff, 3; Blue Masque, 4; Treasurer of Class, 4; Glee Club, 3.

The name itself gives the girl away as the one we know to be petite, lovely, friendly. She's a person that everybody wants to know.

Don't get the idea that Mary Allen is the little girl type that can do nothing well. Everything she attempts turns out the best way, and when she is behind a plan nobody worries. As a Home Economics teacher she will be a great success.

ALTHA HERLOCKER, A.B.
ALBEMARLE, N. C.

Wingate Junior College, 1, 2.

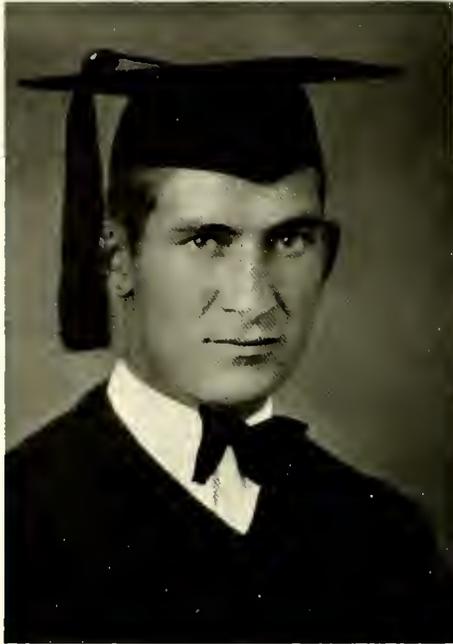

Our student body, as a whole, has not had the privilege of becoming acquainted with Altha, but those of us who have had the pleasure know that she is what one may term a "true friend." For several summers she has attended Catawba. During the winter months she has taught. Energetic! well, we should say that she is. Already she is making her mark in life. Our best wishes go with you, Altha.

MELVA HERLOCKER, A.B.
ALBEMARLE, N. C.

Wingate Junior College, 1, 2; Y. W. C. A., 4; Intramural Sports, 4.

This pretty blonde comes to us from Wingate for her senior year. That she is ambitious is shown by the fact that she is completing her college course in three years. That she is dependable and conscientious all her friends can testify. At Wingate she was an honor student, and her record here has also been a distinguished one. Luck to you, Melva!

There are lots of things that will make us remember Fred. He's witty; he's level-headed; he's athletic; and he's friendly. You can't forget a person like that.

For any old thing at any old time Fred is always ready. He can have his good time in an old automobile or in chemistry lab. Judging from appearances Fred must have been a Boy Scout in his youth; he sees to it that he does his good deed daily.

FLORA HUFF, A.B.

SPENCER, N. C.

Intramural Sports, 1, 4; Los Hidalgos, 2, 3, 4; Rana Club, 2, 3, 4; Assistant in Biology, 4.

Now would you believe that Flora really enjoys dissecting those poor crayfish and cats! Yes, she has so malicious a heart. She seems to do it rather well, too, for she plans to teach science in the near future.

Flora has succeeded in gaining favor in the eyes of her professors, and we presume it is because she always knows the correct tense of French verbs and has prepared her lessons to the nth degree. Though she is rather quiet and unassuming, she has a ready wit and the ability to have a jolly good time.

In her departure from Catawba we lose a sincere friend and a willing worker. We wish for her the greatest happiness and success.

PATTIE HOLBROOK, B.S.

That red hair indicates temper doesn't hold true in Pattie's case. We can't remember seeing her really mad. To us Pattie means smiles—the cheerful, helpful kind, that make us know their owner is the "friend indeed" sort of girl.

Pattie is just as efficient in handling kitchen cabinets and sewing machines as she is successful in making people happy. It's unnecessary to wish a girl like Pattie success: she can't miss it.

EVERETTE HONEYCUTT, A.B.
STANFIELD, N. C.

Wingate Junior College, 1, 2; Blue Masque, 3; Athenacian Literary Society, 3, 4.

Although "Honey" has been with us only two years, he has shown us that he is interested in all the activities of the school. He is always ready to do his share, whether it be reciting on class or yelling at football games. We know he will make a success of life if he continues with his good qualities that were shown at Catawba.

Auburn is one of those persons who doesn't need to talk about his ambitions and ideals. The most negligent observer sees, as only Auburn can show him, that they are there. At all times one notices the intense interest he has in the task of the moment, whether it be auditing the accounts of the Pioneer, scoring one in soccer, or jumping over those hurdles on the cindered track. And, even as we pass him on a Saturday night en route to town for that date, we are sure that "Honey" is one of those who is getting out of college what he puts into it—the most.

Our best wishes go with you, Auburn, to Johns Hopkins.

in Home Economics

GRANITE QUARRY, N. C.

Philomathean Literary Society, 2, 3, 4; Home Economics Club, 2, 3, 4; Orchestra, 1, 2.

Pauline—no nickname available—is another of our sunny-locked seniors who often shatters her dignity by bursting forth into uncontrollable—and inimitable—tempests of giggles. Probably she thinks sunny dispositions make sunny kitchens. (Ah!)

Pauline says that her "most favorite course at Catawba was practice house." She "liked it because it was of such practical value."

The sparkling stone that has recently been placed upon the third finger whispers of delightful secrets; but when we ask her about it, she simply smiles and smiles and smiles.

EVELYN KETCHIE, A. B.

SPENCER, N. C.

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2; Treasurer of Class, 3; French Club, 1, 2; Vice-President, 2; Spencer Club, 1; Intramural Sports, 3, 4.

Evelyn is the ideal type of college girl who combines intelligence, good looks, and a pleasing personality. To one who does not know her she might seem quiet and reserved. Upon more intimate acquaintance one discovers in her the capability of creating some rare bits of humor, and of saying the proper thing at the proper time. Evelyn's pleasing personality is just the asset needed to acquire friends, and once a friend she is always a friend.

ELSIE MCKNIGHT KISER, A. B.

KANNAPOLIS, N. C.

Lenoir-Rhyne College, 1, 2, 3.

Elsie, it would seem, has put one over on the rest of us. She decided last year that the joys of single-blessedness were not sufficient to merit her remaining in said state of bliss. Hence, she launched out upon the high sea of matrimony.

Elsie has proved by her success in every phase of work at Catawba that she is capable of any undertaking. Her readiness to help at all times and her spirit of coöperation have won for her a vast number of friends.

FLAY SIDNEY KISER, A.B.

KANNAPOLIS, N. C.

Lenoir-Rhyne College, 1, 2, 3.

Flay came to us this year from Lenoir Rhyne, bringing with him a sincere purpose, a willing heart, an open mind, and last, but not least, a member of the gentler sex. During his stay here he has been, in every sense of the word, a good student, a gentleman, and a real friend.

Flay is capable and ambitious but not so full of such things that he makes life disagreeable for the rest of us. His unflinching good humor, coupled with an attractive personality, has combined to make him one of whom it can truthfully be said, "of enemies he has none."

We know that Flay will make a great success in life if he continues to press onward as he has done at Catawba.

Supply the two blanks above in the excerpt from Shelley with the name of this dashing person, and then there will be light. For if you know Jake, then you will readily acknowledge the true application of Shelley's lines to him; on the other hand, if you do not know Jake but are familiar with the poet's concept, then you will know Jake. A true Thespian he has portrayed himself to us on numerous occasions, and so it is with every ounce of sincerity embellished within our human hearts that we wish him an equal amount of success as he now receives his entrance cue in the world's best known theatre upon the Stage of Life.

VIRGINIA LAWSON A.B.
SPENCER, N. C.

Philomathean Literary Society, 2, 3, 4; Intramural Sports, 1, 2, 3, 4.

Gentle readers, meet Reagon—our strong, silent man. Little seems to be known of his life history save that he has had a ravenous appetite for peanut butter since babyhood. Going about his work with a smile and a Pauline, Reagon gets things done in a manner that would surprise many of us. Nevertheless, in between classes and chapel attendance, he seems to find time to engage in all the social activities which grace our campus.

We predict a sunshiny future for you, Reagon!

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2; Los Hidalgos, 2, 3, 4; Library Club, 4, Secretary and Treasurer, 4; Library Assistant, 4.

Energy and efficiency—that's Virginia's watchword! She never fails to do, and do well, anything which she is called upon. Earnest, dependable, self-sacrificing—we wish there were more girls like Virginia. We often marvel at her alertness and vitality, and wonder how one mere individual can do so many things and be so many places at the same time. When "Ginny" leaves us, there will ever be a feeling that "someone's missing."

LEXINGTON, N. C.

Appalachian, 1; Y. W. C. A., 2, 3, 4; Los Hidalgos, 3, 4; Davidson County Club, 2, 3; Glee Club, 4.

Geneva speaks but little, but when you do hear from her you may well depend upon what she says. She is not at all aggressive, but she is thoroughly capable in whatever duties she may have to perform.

Although she is quiet and modest, her sweetness of character and her sincerity of heart have won for her numerous friends. Geneva is studious and conscientious, a member of Catawba's only honor society, and will go far in her chosen career as a teacher.

LENA LEWIS, A.B.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

"Love me, love my dog."

There are many people who would walk a mile for a Camel but Miss Lewis would rather walk a mile for her dog, or better still, many miles with him. To her, "Diogenes" is not a philosopher but a prince of dogs. Her two chief loves on earth are "Diogenes" and John Barrymore: she would rather see Barrymore act than to eat.

Need we say more of her intellect than in all her scholastic records we find A's and more A's.

She thinks.

Dancing eyes, a saucy grin—your first impressions of "Bill." Upon better acquaintance, however, you will learn just why her eyes dance so and why her grin is so saucy. She gets so much kick out of being alive. Then, too, she possesses a stock of wit and humor.

But lest you get the wrong impression and think "Bill" only light and fluffy, let us add that she is a good student and does more than merely pass.

Hugh is a rather quiet sort of chap, but that does not keep him from being an invaluable classmate and member of the student body. He is big-hearted, cheerful, and most of all, a good sport.

Ralph hails from Granite Quarry, but we can't hold that against him. When it comes to writing plays, Ralph knows how. But that isn't the only thing he can do. A living specimen of personified optimism, he is the official entertainer of his class.

So far as we can see, Ralph has no feminine tendencies; but we know that Cupid will strike sometime.

If it rained characters it would never rain another like Ralph!

"A Pearl of great price."

Earnest, sincere, a friend at all times and a lovable pal is Pearl. Although she has been with us only two years, we have learned to love her, and we realize how fortunate we were in receiving her from Miami University. She is bound to succeed wherever she goes, and in whatever she does. It takes girls like Pearl to make this old world move cheerfully. Good luck and bon voyage in your journey through life!

HELEN R. MURPH, A.B.
SALISBURY, N. C.

Davenport College, 1, 2.

Wait a little, folks, here is Helen—one of our Salisbury girls. She may be small in stature, but she certainly has an interesting personality. We have known her for a very short time; however, we have found her a mixture of gayety and seriousness, ready to serve when opportunity calls. By the way, she is ahead of most of us, for she has already been out in the big world of experience. Helen, we hope you may steadily climb the ladder of success.

"Lou"—that quiet, self-effacing chap from Pennsylvania, spent his first year at Juniata. Then this candid, loyal, conscientious fellow decided to come South. He was a regular Indian, and by virtue of his friendliness and energy he has won an enviable place in our hearts. Cupid never deemed it advisable to allow Lewis to establish himself in one heart; many co-eds have coveted his undying affection, but he contrived to treat one and all the same. May the great success that you deserve be yours!

Home Economics Club, 2, 3, 4; Intramural Sports, 3, 4; Spencer Club, 1.

In spite of her tremendous amount of executive ability—one would judge that she majored in Economics rather than Home Economics—this young lady decided that she could and would find ample opportunity for exhaustion of her ability as an executant in the "practice house."

She did not, however, confine her attention to "economy in the home," for when there was a soccer ball to be kicked or a basketball to be tossed Katherine was not called in vain.

May you retain the same qualifications which put an asterisk beside your name in the list to denote successful college students when you are no longer "playing house."

Some girls come to college to study; some come for a good time; Gehrette came for both. She is one of our outstanding athletes, one of our best students, and one of the finest girls on the campus. Gehrette is just Gehrette and we admire her for her wholehearted qualities. She plays hard; she works hard; and she's the grandest sport imaginable.

As president of Phi Epsilon this year she has filled her office most successfully. (And we're expecting her to make a marvelous teacher!) Our best wishes to you, Gehrette.

I shall never forget that "cute little dance" starts to you all. You are your class and you are the best. Lots o' love to you.

Quiet, friendly, conscientious, sunny—this is Daisy. Everyone learns to appreciate the value of her friendship with every acquaintance. She is a winsome personality on Catawba's campus, especially in the arts of cooking and sewing.

You can look at these honors of Ed's and have the whole story. You can see his interest in his Alma Mater and his love for her activities.

Those who know him value his wealth of merits. Those who would like to know him already realize what we lose in indomitable courage, level-headed wisdom, and dynamic energy. When Plitt leaves Catawba, of course we regret it, but we fully realize that he has new work to do. So we tell him goodbye with a tinge of envy for the seminary that gains him.

A student body is composed of three types; leaders, followers, and "sitters on the fence." This fellow possessing high ideals, ambitions, humility, tolerance, and a sense of justice has, naturally, been a leader. His imposing array of honors was received as a reward for bringing to Catawba not only a striking and original personality but a willingness to work hard—for others.

"Andy" is not so completely susceptible to feminine wiles as are some of the stronger sex, but he has been known to cast an approving eye. For "Andy," himself: "May you find the world and its people just another campus and its students."

Hope you

Loyal, sincere, even-tempered, sympathetic, and understanding—all these qualities go to make up Evelyn. Even though she is a bit reserved, those who know her have found that she is always a good sport. She is willing at all times to do whatever is asked of her, and she always does it well! Evelyn is a true-blue girl, and her friends are those who are lasting. And as we tell her goodbye, we prepare ourselves for news of the accomplishments of one who has made a place for herself which no one else can fill. May success attend you always, Evelyn!

Modest, attractive, ready to help—that's Anita. She has meant much to her class, for she has helped in upholding its ideals with her loyalty, her enthusiasm, and her influence.

Beautiful in character and outstanding in intellectual ability, Anita was made to love and to be loved. Her many friends make us realize that such popularity must be deserved. We know that success and happiness will always be hers.

Addie is another of those quiet seniors whom one frequently sees but seldom hears. She is a specialist in cookin', sweepin', and darnin'. Four years of practice have made her one of the best of cooks and seamstresses. With all that knowledge of Home Economics, Addie will undoubtedly make a fine mate for some young man, and we should like to prophesy a great future for her in that particular field. And speaking of her future, we hope that she will remember us as long as we think of her, and invite us around to partake of pancakes, bacon, and eggs just any time of day.

Wilbur didn't come to Catawba just to say he had come to get an education; the success he has made proves that he was in earnest.

We understand that Wilbur has taken quite an interest in "what a young man should know about sewing" from one fair Home Economics damsel.

Wilbur, if you continue as you have started, the best of life will surrender to you.

When you meet a rather neat-looking fellow on the campus with a tendency to be handsome, and he smiles, speaks, and goes quietly on his way, then you've met Aubrey. He's the sort of fellow that adds to his school, for hard work doesn't seem to bother him and he's always ready to help when you call on him. If the past and present are any indications of the future, his success is assured. We are proud to call him one of ours!

FRANCES THOMPSON, A.B.

SALISBURY, N. C.

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2, 3; Classic Club, 2, 3; Feature Editor SWASTIKA, 3; Marshall, 3; Vice-President of Class, 4.

Frances is the "little girl" of our class and her daintiness and congenial nature go to make up her unique personality. She is frank, unselfish, and accommodating. Her freshness, her gaiety, her entrancing vitality, and her warm friendship make her loved by all.

Big, understanding eyes—so clear and so happy, and a smile ready and winsome. There is a rare sweetness about this popular girl. She possesses a spontaneous charm and a keen intellect which win all who come in contact with her.

EDGAR L. VICK, A.B.

SPENCER, N. C.

Ed is an excellent representative of a true Catawba senior—dependable, scholarly, persevering, conscientious, and friendly. Throughout his four years at Catawba his good looks and neat appearance have charmed numerous members of the fairer sex.

During his junior year Ed was the recipient of the Winecoff Biology Prize awarded annually to the student making the greatest progress in that subject during the year. This honor, and his scholarly deportment, have won for him our admiration, and we are confident of his success in the medical world.

EMILY WEBB, B.S. in Music

Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2, 3, 4; Catawba College Girls' Quartette, 1, 2, 3; Schiller Verein, 1, 2; Glee Club, 4; Marshall, 3.

Emily is more than talented. She has an unusually fine voice and, at the same time, possesses the coveted art of acquiring hosts of admirers from both the gentler and the stronger sexes. Emily's poise, graciousness of manner, and calm disposition are qualities of the true southern lady so fast disappearing.

We predict for her a brilliant future, whether it be on the stage, in the home, or in the musical world.

*Edward, and

JAMES WHITENER, A.B.

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Vice-President of Class, 1; Football, 1, 2, 3, 4; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4; Letter Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Pioneer Staff, 2, 3; Philomathean Literary Society, 1, 2, 3, 4; Class President, 4.

What would the class of '32 be without its "Red?" He's the president, yes, but he is more than that. When we chose him for a leader we knew what we were getting. Friendly, helpful, cheerful, and witty—that's "Red."

Everybody knows him; everybody likes him. Now he's going, and what will the college do? They'll miss his grin; they'll want his pep; they'll need an athlete; but there isn't a person on the campus who is not glad that "Red" is setting out to show people who don't know him just what sort of a fellow he is.

MARGARET WHITENER, A.B.

SALISBURY, N. C.

Schiller Verein, 1; Rhapsody Club, 1, 2, Secretary, 2; Tumbling Club, 1, 2; Orchestra, 1; Band, 2; Phi Epsilon, 2, 3, 4; Philomathean Literary Society, 2, 3, 4; Secretary, 2; Glee Club, 3, 4; Blue Masque, 4; Y. W. C. A., 4; Girls' Quartette, 3.

Did you ever know a person who could sing and tumble with equal ease? Here's one of them. She takes the top place in a pyramid as gracefully as she takes a top note in a solo. Furthermore, she does these two things, comes to the classes, and still has time to serve her fellow classmates.

Everybody knows Margaret and her abilities, and she will be a great asset to the school who gains her. She may be a little girl, but she hasn't any trouble doing big things.

E for efficiency, M for merriment, I for industry, L for loyalty, Y for yearning (ah! Charlie!) This spells Emily. W for willingness, I for intelligence, L for loveliness, K for knack, I for individuality, N for naivete, S for success. This spells Wilkins.

If there were more letters in her name I am sure we could find equally as many adjectives to describe this small girl of ours. She is capable in every sense of any task given to her. As an actress she proved herself one of the most outstanding and it is with regret that we lose her. We wish her much happiness and may she always prove herself as loving and helpful as she has been at Catawba.

Pete Winters—carefree, gay-spirited, always devoted to his chief interest. As an orator and a debater, Pete brought himself and his Alma Mater into the spotlight. Possessing a faculty for acting, he achieved the topmost rung of the dramatic ladder in Catawba. As a journalist, his pen set down reams of interesting and spicy material for Catawba's publications. As Romeo he took Juliet every time from Paris. Bonne vie, Pete!

Senior Class History

Classes may come and classes may go at Catawba, but never has there been, nor will there be, one quite like the class of '32. No other class will have spent four years exactly as we have spent ours nor done exactly the same things we have done in exactly the same way. We have experienced almost anything from wearing green ribbons on our "dinks" to having our Dean tactfully drag us out of automobiles on Sunday afternoons. We have been associated with every organization on the campus, some of good repute, others not so good. As for many of the notable experiences we have had, we shall pass most of them in silence, for they are deep, dark secrets.

Lonely we were when we entered the campus that rainy day, September 12, 1928, a host of green, home-loving, high school Seniors who had for some reason or other chosen Catawba for port. Our self-conscious, non-important look soon distinguished us as Freshmen, and from then on we found ourselves very diligently, faithfully, and conscientiously obeying the innocent commands of the Sophomores. They seemed to know just how to do everything and took great delight in placing us in all sorts of embarrassing positions. Being thus initiated into all events most popular to first-year students, we soon lost our feeling of importance. Nevertheless, we got our revenge when one of the boys allowed his old Ford to be dressed up as a baby carriage for the circus parade and in it were wheeled some of our baby Freshmen. We won the prize, a pretty little loving cup. The pride of the class was also overwhelming when we beat the Sophomores in a football tilt. Our social program was marked by a Treasure Hunt, a welcome from the Juniors, and by a farewell class party which brought the year to a close with a bang.

When nine months had passed we had become used to the strange and inconsistent ways of the collegiate world. With power to make the new students do as we commanded, there was a glory in being Sophomore bravos. As "wise fools," our know-it-all attitude was in prominence and each was out for Freshman gore. We gave them a hilarious welcome which lasted throughout the year. Our attention, however, was not entirely devoted to these inexperienced children. We had wider and more varied interests than in the previous year and began to take our rightful places in the college activities. We believed that we were absolutely essential and that without us the college would have experienced a great depression. We certainly made our importance felt on the campus. The success of the Sophomore-Senior Banquet proved the ability of which we had so often boasted.

Came September, 1930. We were Juniors with a spirit of determination to carry on the responsibilities which befall students of two years' college experience. Though we had lost the influential prestige of the Sophomore, had not yet acquired the inspiring dignity of the Senior, to each of us this year was as important as any other. The class took great pride in its brawny athletes, fluent orators, honored campus leaders, and intellectual and popular students. With keen enjoyment the task of editing the SWASTIKA was undertaken. The Junior-Senior Banquet was the outstanding affair of our social program. Truly that Junior class was a class of great achievement.

Our Senior year finally came, the realization of many fond hopes as well as the beginning of innumerable ambitions. Many events were crowded into this one short year. On campus day, dressed as pilots of the air, we very efficiently carried out the class motto, "Not at the top, but climbing." May day for us was a happy affair. Some envied us, others seemed glad to be able to spend another year before venturing out into the world.

Now, for us, the peak is reached: we are graduated. There were sad faces in the long line of black-robed men and women as we marched forth to receive our diplomas. Once again we are lonely. We are leaving our home of four years' standing and going away. As we part, realizing chances for all to meet together again are few, in a sudden rush our minds visualize all of the things that have happened in these four years. Gratefully, admiringly, sadly, we leave our Alma Mater, with these things to constitute the memories we are to carry away with us, to comfort us in future years.

“The Pilots of the Air”

*Honest Iago says to jealous Othello:
“Good name in man and woman, dear my lord,
Is the immediate jewels of their souls . . .”*

—SHAKESPEARE.

And yet we say, there's nothing in a name. Why a name at all? Why this name? Why that? There is always some kind of a name. Yet, there's nothing in a name?

Last year at the Capitol Theatre, Madame Serene could tell correctly the important events of any person's past life, as well as the present and future, if she knew only that person's name. It has been said that there is connected with every name some hidden mystery which has a distinct influence on character. If this be true, who knows what a name may reveal or foretell? Perhaps some names imply intellect, such as Adolph and Ida; others, high attainments in athletics, such as “Buzz” and “Poss”; some may intimate good at everything, such as Alice Correll and James Edgar William; some are only to make a character more jocose, such as Ralph Henry and Elsie Mandilla; some denote unique individuality—Jacob Franklin and Lena A.; popularity is always linked with such names as Frances and “Andy”; Peter was the spokesman of the twelve, “Pete” is our great orator. After all, there may be some mysterious significance in a name, and the Seniors have come to believe that this is true.

On the twenty-fourth day of October in the year one thousand, nine hundred and thirty-one the Seniors announced themselves “The Pilots.” The symbol of the class is the aeroplane, signifying that they are to direct their course through the air. Who knows but that a magic wand from the aerial realm may have touched their subconscious minds in influencing the Seniors to select such a name? At first we think it not at all unusual. Then, after some musing, we recognize a slight trace of significant strangeness: “The Pilots”—stately, daring, monarchs of the air.

The name, "The Pilots of the Air," suggests in itself an interpretation: One of the highest manifestations of modern mechanics is the aeroplane. The early years of the era of flying machines have been filled with amazing triumphs and discoveries. There is little comparison of the first flight of the frail biplane actually staying in air for a period of twelve seconds with the lone flight of the monoplane purring fearlessly over the perilous Atlantic. What a poignant contrast! Yet, it is not unlike that complete metamorphosis of that stupid, blundering, chicken-hearted Freshman class puzzled with insoluble problems and grinning with fond hopes of gaining dignity and knowledge, to the Seniors—a distinct class characterized by illustrious individuality and the highest marks of excellence. The highest marks of excellence? Yes. Consider the most distinguished students (geniuses) on the campus: the clever actors of the Blue Masque; the coloratura soloists of the College Chorus; the most fluent orators in the forensic activities; the editors of the student publications; the talented playwrights; the leaders of the departmental clubs; the most skillful athletes;—most of them are the Seniors, (who, under the influence of their name, "The Pilots," have attained greater distinction in these activities than have been possible with classes of previous years.)

The present offers little, for "The Pilots" have only begun to brave the unknown. Each day demands a more qualified pilot, for only the daring, the experienced, the expert, are ever allowed to pilot the great airships. First-rate craftsmanship and high aspirations are the only means to success, and the champions of today are those who have excelled the heroes of the yesterday.

Dare we prophesy as to what the future will be for the qualified pilots? Perhaps it is they who will introduce us to the warlike inhabitants of Mars or who will settle disputes about the existence of a Man in the Moon. Even now, among the thousands of droning man-made birds casting a huge shadow on the tiny ball, the Earth, the green and white planes are soaring highest.

Where are they going? What is the goal? What shall be the feats of "The Pilots of the Air?"

Motto and the Pilots' answer: "The Sky is the Limit!"

MISS LENA R. BOLEY

To speak of Miss Boley as someone outside our class is improbable if not impossible. During the year she has worked with us and has been so much a part of us that we almost think of her as another Junior.

What would we have done without Miss Boley? Back of all our plans we knew we could find her—always ready with an original, clever, even witty idea. For advice on any class project we knew we could go to her. (For all her ingenuity she is an extremely practical person.)

We could scarcely call Miss Boley entirely "ours." She has belonged to all Catawba. Her colorful posters and novel programs have built up a new enthusiasm in college organizations.

The truth of the whole matter comes to this: Miss Boley runs about, a-foot and a-Chevrolet, helping us out, making us laugh, and keeping us optimistic.

What would we do without Miss Boley? Who brought that question up, anyway?

Best wishes

DR. DAVID E. FAUST

Suppose the Sophomores were being unduly criticized by the Freshmen. Or—just suppose the Sophomore class was in real trouble. Representatives of that class would simply take a little walk over to the faculty apartment to find Dr. David E. Faust. Dr. David E., as he is familiarly called, would most likely be taking his latest progeny for a walk. But with his characteristic smile, he would immediately relinquish the lesser duty for the greater and help the Sophomores with their difficulties. And the important thing is that he would give them sensible, worthwhile suggestions. Although he is a busy man, he has always had time to help the class that has selected him as its adviser. Because of his cheerful coöperation, his ever generous offer to be of service, and his policy of fair play at all times, we are glad to go to him with our problems. In stature he's small, but he's a big man to the Sophomores!

MISS FRANCES M. BATTE

It is said that the Freshman class has fewer privileges than any of the others, but we have one of which we are sure they envy us—that of having Miss Frances Batte as our faculty adviser. Miss Batte came to Catawba's campus at the same time we did, but, thank goodness, she was not in the same predicament. Having once been a freshman herself, she could sympathize with us, and we were often encouraged by her friendly boosts. We felt free to confess to her our embarrassments received at the hands of mischievous upper classmen, and she freely administered consolation.

We hope to make her proud of us and we hope to do justice to her in all our undertakings. We are very grateful to her for her splendid coöperation and guidance and wish herein to express our deepest gratitude.

Sincerely,

Glee Club

The Glee Club of Catawba College is composed of those students who have a rather good voice, some knowledge of music reading, a musical ear, and a special interest in music. All students are allowed to try out before the director at the beginning of the fall semester, and if the above qualifications are held, they may join the Glee Club.

This group of singers has done some very notable work and has made a large number of trips to cities throughout the State giving performances.

All students of Catawba College, desiring to assume individual and collective responsibility in the life and conduct of the college, have organized themselves into an association. We hope to develop a high standard of college life and to promote loyalty to the Alma Mater. It is the duty of the Senate to see that the executive as well as the judicial duties of the student body are properly regulated. The Senate seeks and administers justice, initiates and supervises activities, and acts as the representative body of the association at all times.

The Blue Masque, dramatic organization of Catawba College, has achieved, since its inception, an enviable reputation for itself, both locally and throughout the State, having won the championship shield presented at the annual convention at the University of North Carolina by the North Carolina Dramatic Association every time the contest was entered.

At each monthly meeting a one-act play, selected, directed, staged, and acted by the students is produced before the Association for its criticism. Twice yearly, public presentation of full-length plays are produced under the personal supervision of the director, Mrs. John C. Busby.

The aim of the Blue Masque is to uplift the individual, to free him from self-consciousness, to develop a deep sense of artistic appreciation and a keener insight into the great common heart of mankind, and to instill sympathy and understanding of the great drama of Life as well as the drama of the stage.

CATAWBA 7—MILLIGAN 7

A belated touchdown about the middle of the fourth period followed by a successful placement kick, enabled Catawba to even matters with the strong Milligan College eleven in the opening game of the season. The touchdown made by Milligan came in the second quarter when two of the Indians fumbled a bouncing punt. After they had touched it several times, Milligan recovered the ball on the Catawba 30-yard line. A series of drives and passes led to a touchdown and an extra point.

Catawba rallied in the final period to drive down the field sixty yards and finally scored a touchdown. Appanaitis place-kicked a beauty to tie the score. The boys played good football at times and did well to tie the score.

ATLANTIC UNIVERSITY 0—CATAWBA 6

The Indian offense clicked more smoothly than on the previous Saturday, and there was great improvement in the blocking and tackling. These conditions enabled the Indians to eke out a 6-0 win over a strong, experienced, and heavy Atlantic University eleven from Virginia Beach.

The lone touchdown came in the final period as a result of a 40-yard pass, Witmer to Robinson, placing the ball on the visitors' 15-yard line. After several line plays that netted no gain, Witmer again hurled the pigskin to "Gil," who stood waiting on the goal line between two Atlantic backs. He leaped into the air, pulled the ball down with him, and it was just another victory for Uncle Charlie and his Catawba Warriors. Atlantic was forced to make practically all her gains via the air, while the Indians smashed through the visitors' line time after time for nice gains.

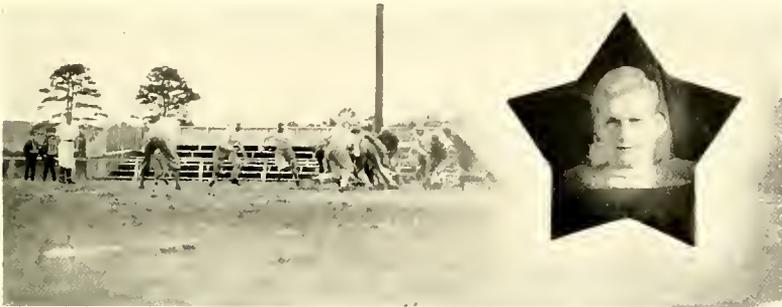

KENTUCKY WESTERN 14—CATAWBA 7

Uncle Charlie Moran's Catawba Indians went down to their first defeat in two seasons before the onslaught of the eleven from Western Kentucky Teachers' College in Bowling Green, Kentucky. A trace of that indomitable spirit that sent the "Praying Colonels" of Centre College to fame years ago, showed itself again that day as the boys of the former Colonel coach fought like maddened tigers to stave off a defeat that seemed throughout the game to be inevitable.

Coming back in the last quarter after Western had amassed a 14-point lead, the Indians fought their way to a touchdown, which sent a scare into Western as they again advanced the ball to within scoring distance. The game ended with the boys from Carolina in possession of the ball in midfield.

Those outstanding in the Indian machine were Captain Kesler, Pearson, Robinson and Schlenger.

PARRIS ISLAND MARINES 0—CATAWBA 13

The following Saturday saw the Indians back in the Shuford Stadium, where they handed the strong and much heavier Parris Island Marine eleven their only defeat of the season.

The two touchdowns came in the last part of the game as the result of long passes. Appanaitis scored both times by the end run method, after the ball had been advanced to scoring position. Catawba threatened to score early in the game, but was unable to make the necessary yardage. In spite of the fact that the soldiers presented a much heavier and more experienced aggregation, they were unable, due to the superior defensive tactics on the part of Catawba, to seriously threaten the Indian goal line.

The entire Catawba team played a scrappy aggressive brand of ball that kept the visitors on the defensive throughout the contest. The work of the Catawba front line was a great help, both offensively and defensively.

APPALACHIAN 7—CATAWBA 6

Following the Marine game, Catawba took her second defeat of the season at the hands of Appalachian State. The contest was one of the hardest fought of the entire season, and the visitors earned their one-point victory. A large home-coming day crowd witnessed the game.

Catawba scored her touchdown before the game was hardly five minutes old when "Whitey" Witmer flipped a 40-yard pass to "Gil" Robinson, who, racing at top speed, caught the ball and continued ten more yards for a score. The Appalachian players returned to the game in the second half with renewed energy and determination. Twice Catawba rallied to throw the Mountaineers for a slight loss while they were within the five-yard line and gained possession of the ball, but on the third attempt, the boys from Boone punched the Catawba line for a touchdown and kicked goal to claim a one-point margin that was never equaled.

The teams were evenly matched and both scores came as result of fumbles. Catawba was forced to the air to make all her gains because of the weight of the Appalachian forward wall.

HIGH POINT 6—CATAWBA 7

The next Saturday saw Catawba play one of the most ragged football games in her history against High Point College. The game was played in Winston-Salem on a hard, dusty field. It was the first cold day of the season, and fumbles were plentiful. The game was an aerial battle from start to finish, but few of these passes found their marks.

About midway in the second period, High Point took to the air in midfield to score a touchdown, when Reese hurled a short one to Cory, who raced through the entire Catawba team for 45 yards and a touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

The Indians made their touchdown in the same period as a result of two long passes. Pearson made a beautiful catch for the score. "Appy" then made good use of his toe, sending the ball through the middle of the bars for the extra point. Robinson played a beautiful game at left end, while Appanaitis was the big shot in the Indians' backfield.

KING COLLEGE 0—CATAWBA 16

Armistice Day found the Indians in Bristol, Va.-Tenn., where they engaged in a gridiron contest with the King College eleven. They celebrated the day by defeating the latter by the score of 16-0.

King put up a hard and determined fight, but a bewildering barrage of forward passes effectively mixed with running plays enabled Catawba to remain on the offensive throughout most of the game, and to decisively register a win. The Indians' manager, who was in the press box, claims that his comrades scored two more touchdowns while the officials were sleeping.

The Indians, in the persons of Witmer, Schlenger, Robinson, and Pearson completed 13 out of 23 passes for a total gain of 220 yards. 105 yards were gained from line play, increasing Catawba's total yardage to 325, not to count Kester's 60-yard run.

PIEDMONT 7—CATAWBA 20

Three days later found the Catawba boys back in Salisbury, lined up in war formation against a strong Piedmont College eleven. Despite the fact that this was the second game for Moran's men that week, they manifested great strength as they turned their opponents back to the tune of 20-7. Piedmont was first to score early in the first quarter, when one of their men recovered a fumbled punt on the 34-yard line.

Catawba came right back, tied the score by a sustained drive from the kick-off, and then proceeded to add two more touchdowns in the second and fourth periods and halted every Piedmont threat.

As usual, Catawba took to the air for most of her gains. The Indians registered ten first downs to the four for the visitors. Fumbles were numerous, and the game was rather slow because of the heat.

Princes, it's been a pleasure to hear you talk on King's class!
What a class!
Don't forget
Appy!

LINCOLN-MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY 0—CATAWBA 39

The last home game of the season saw the "Red Men" of Catawba trounce the Lincoln-Memorial eleven 39-0. The score does not exactly indicate the power of the visitors, as they twice threatened the Indians' goal line. However, with these two exceptions, the Blue and White team had things pretty much their own way. Early in the game they released a bewildering passing attack that the boys from Tennessee were never able to stop.

The playing of Captain Kesler, Witmer, Appanaitis, Schlenger, and Robinson, captain-lect for 1932, was outstanding in the Catawba offense, while Husser and Fowler played a good defensive game. "Red" Kesler, "Red" Whitener, and "Rags" Kirchin were playing their last home game, and all three of these lads played a beautiful game.

LENOIR RHYE

Thanksgiving Day saw the Catawba Red Men go back their old rivals, the Lenoir Rhyne Bears, to a coming day crowd of 3,000 persons. Accurate passes, with a strategic times, proved too much for the Gurleymen and C.

Uncle Charlie Moran's charge passed. They completed 17 out of 23 passes and chalked eleven first downs to the Bears.

The Mountain Bears were clearly outclassed and scored their two points when a punt by "Appy" was blocked and he was tackled behind the goal line for a safety.

The entire Catawba team functioned smoothly and provided practically all the thrills for the crowd. The line play for the Indians was outstanding, while the backfield produced the necessary punch to carry the ball over the goal line.

Maybe we can play more than next year.

Catawba finished her second season of soccer with a very successful series of games. The boys on the squad practiced hard for each game and went into every contest with the spirit that makes any team fight and win. The first game for the Blue and White was a fast and hard fought one with High Point on the home field. Neither team scored until two extra periods were played.

1931-32 Basketball Summary

Playing the usual difficult schedule the Blue and White team, under the capable tutelage of Coach Harry B. Warner, won 16 of their 22-game program. "Red" Kesler, playing his fourth year of varsity ball, led the team in scoring with 127 points to his credit. "Whitey" Witmer and "Jerry" Husser, both Sophomores, tied for second place with 119 each, while Captain "Gil" Robinson came third with 107 points to his credit.

With only six days of practice the Indians succeeded in downing High Point "Y" by the score of 36-16. Then they got into their bus and journeyed northward into Virginia where they defeated Massanutten Military Academy 26-23, which victory was followed by a 23-20 triumph over Bridgewater the next night. The Indians marched on into Pennsylvania to defeat Elizabethtown 42-22. The following evening saw the Blue and White team trounce the strong Juniata five 32-29, while on the following evening they were defeated by an experienced aggregation in Hanover, Pa., 37-25. Saturday, our team, already worn out from travel, went to New York City, where they suffered a 43-21 defeat at the hands of Savage College. Returning to Catawba after the Christmas holidays the Indians downed the Salisbury All Stars 30-26 in a practice game. Kannapolis "Y" was next to invade the Catawba camp and was turned back 23-16. A few days later the strong Charlotte "Y" five were forced to accept a 25-22 defeat. Then the trouble started. For some unknown reason the boys were not able to get together. Appalachian came here and defeated us 32-25. Charlotte "Y" took the Indians into camp, 41-26. The following day they went to Clinton, S. C., where the strong team at the Presbyterian College, Coach Warner's Alma Mater, was handed its worst defeat in several seasons by the score 43-23. Lenoir Rhyne came to Salisbury, and, in a last minute rally, eked out a one-point win. We next played Appalachian State a return game and when the smoke cleared away, the score stood 22-21 in favor of Catawba. The Lenoir Rhyne Bears were taken into camp 25-18. Atlantic Christian College was next to suffer defeat at the hands of the Indians, the score being 41-25. The Guilford Quakers were met and defeated 30-29. The Indians gained revenge upon the High Point Panthers by downing them 32-20 in a return game played in Salisbury. Manager Rader took the boys to High Point, where they turned back the "Y" quintet to the tune of 39-21. And in the final game of the season Coach Harry Warner's charges rallied in the second half and showed fans and students some real basketball as they took the Guilford Quakers into camp, 28-23. Thus ended a very successful season.

1931 Baseball Summary

Playing the usual difficult schedule, the Catawba Indians, under the capable tutelage of Coach Carl A. Davis, won ten out of the fifteen-game program in 1931, the conference title being forfeited on the grounds that Catawba did not play the required number of conference games. The capable pitching of Harry Miller and Gene Peeler proved to be a large and valuable wheel in the Indian machine. However, had it not been for the wonderful support received from "Doc" Zimmerman, "Gil" Robinson, Joe "Texas" Black, Andy Appanaitis, and Captain Kirchin in the infield, and "Poss" Kesler, "Kitty" Finch, and Andy Rader in the outfield, the story would have been quite different.

Handicapped by lack of practice, the squad opened the season by defeating the Parris Island Marine nine to the tune of 11-2. The next day they did the same thing, the score being 13-2. Both these games were played at Parris Island. The Blue and White then returned to Salisbury and handed the lads from the Mt. Pleasant Institute two defeats. The first game was won 3-2 and the last 2-1. The boys then journeyed over to Winston-Salem, where they were downed 8-1 by the professional team of that city. This defeat was soon followed by two more at the hands of the High Point Professional team. The scores were 7-17 and 7-11. Catawba then journeyed over to Hickory, where the Mountain Bears had their day. They white-washed us to the tune of 9-0. From here the Indians journeyed on into Tennessee to defeat the nine of the East Tennessee Teachers' College by the score of 9-2. The next week saw the Indians in Bridgewater, Va., where they divided things even with Bridgewater College, winning one game and losing one. Then they returned home for a game with Appalachian, which ended in a forfeit because of the Boone coach not desiring to abide by the decision of the umpire. A game with Lenoir Rhyne was rained out. Then came the double-header with Guilford, which was to determine the winner of the North State Conference title. As all of you know, Catawba swept the Quakers aside to win both games and the title, thus completing a most successful season.

With a few pitchers coming in this year, 1932, we should have another good team. The schedule for 1932 follows:

An Appreciation

Visions created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

We, the members of THE SWASTIKA Staff, visioned this year-book, but we wish to express our gratitude to our photographer, engraver, and to our printer for their part in creating, in material form, our "vision." To our advertisers who have, by their hearty coöperation, helped to make our annual a success we say, "We trust that relations between the business houses and the college may be pursued with mutual advantages." We also wish to thank those students and members of the faculty who have so willingly given their assistance to us in our endeavor to edit "the best SWASTIKA yet seen on the Catawba campus."

—THE STAFF.
